Part 1: Tony Paulson's garage was damaged and needed to be replaced. Most of the cost of the repair was from his insurance company and the upgrades were paid by him. I demolished the garage making ready for the new structure. After close inspection from Jay Kruger owner of CMS construction management services that was hired by the city of Kasson, it was determined that it also needed to be replaced. Tony wanted to complete the reconstruction of the cement work part of the project. I picked up my permit from the city of Kasson and started to build upon the foundation. Upon completion of the rough in of the garage I called CMS for the inspection. I looked at the job site card and it listed footer inspection. I asked the person at CMS why was the footer inspection on my building permit? They said that the foundation was on my building permit. At that point I pulled off the job and found the answer to that problem in the IRC2006 building code. I submitted a letter to the City of Kasson and the city administrator initialed it. I also talked to Jay Kruger and He said he was not going by the code book and he would issue another permit on the same job. I told him that on my permit there was a clause that if it was not used within six months that it would be void. My permit was taken out first so if their is a contractor of record it would be me. I wouldn't return to the job until this was straightened out. So thier answer to that problem was to issue another building permit on top of mine to complete the garage. I have not been paid by the insurance company and I also have a check for $5,000.00 that was canceled from them on partial payment when the problems were found. This also caused the insurance company to drop me from there construction program.

I also sent this information to Sindy Claason were she issued a case of PLB1111-000-11 at the state of Minnesota. I will also enclose a copy of the complaint. She wouldn't respond in written form but I'll supply a copy of the phone conversation we had. Tony Paulson is a Licensed Plumber in the state of Minnesota and also a federal Licensed Lead renovator.

Tony Paulson's home was built in the 1960's and the siding that was on the outside of the home tested positive for lead paint. In this project the home and garage was resided. This is truly a lead project. The way the project was mishandled made it impossible to comply with the federal lead law. The collusion of all the above people made me a Criminal by trying to fallow all the State and Federal laws in construction.

Part 2: The next project started out with the same insurance company but the Client wanted it to be managed through Him so that was the way it was ran. The owner of a pre 1960'S duplex is Rene Lawson. The project was moving along and we were almost done with the original contract and a change order was required to complete the project. The bank was sending all the construction documents to Rene. Copies of these are enclosed. Rene signed my name and sent them back in. This stopped my pay from the bank and closed down the project for me through the Bank. I called the bank and asked them why they did that? They told me that they didn't know what my signature looked like. I told them that it was on electronic file with them because there were my business bank for years and they also had a client responsibility to me not to except a Forged name. I also asked them why when you open a checking account the all signers must sign in front of a notary republic at the bank but they can fax this to the owner of the property and the contractor may never know this? Part of the change order was to install a new boiler and to finish the construction. Rene decider to be his own general contractor on the boiler installation. He completed this project without a Lead renovator License in a rental property. I am sending pictures of the old boiler setting on the lawn at the property. See the chimney flue that is galvanized and rusted when the galvanized coating released. Galvanized coating's have lead in them. This boiler room is also a common area used as a laundry room. Rene paid me with a check that he stopped payment on to force me into a direct court fight with him and his insurance company if I wanted payment. I will submit voice recordings of Rene Lawson, Rene's Banker and his insurance company.

I'm looking for a ruling on building Permits and the Federal lead law.

We need to all follow the laws or abolish them all.

Thank You,

Scott Marshall
